Description of tasks:

This post-doc position is part of the international Weave Unisono project, "Integrating Public Deliberation for Impact: Learning from the European Wave of Citizens' Assemblies (i4i)." See the link: <https://i4i-project.com>. The i4i project aims to investigate how various integrative elements of citizens' assemblies impact the broader political context, especially in the realm of climate change policies across Europe. The project is a collaboration between leading researchers from Belgium, Germany, and Poland, and focuses on conducting the first Europe-wide, systematic comparative analysis of CAs.

As a Post-Doctoral Researcher, you will be responsible for:

1. Designing Research Studies:
 - Develop research designs for investigating integrative design features of CAs and their impacts on institutions and public policies.
 - Implement research methodologies, including qualitative interviews, focus groups, and comparative analysis.
 - Ensure compliance with ethical research standards and data protection protocols.
2. Conducting Research and Analysis:
 - Collect and analyze qualitative data through interviews, focus groups, and document analysis.
 - Conduct process tracing to explore causal mechanisms in the selected case studies.
 - Interpret findings and contribute to academic publications and project reports.
 - Prepare and submit at least three single or co-authored papers to high-impact, peer-reviewed journals.
3. Collaboration and Teamwork:
 - Engage in regular research meetings and discussions with the international research team.
 - Collaborate on joint research activities, including data analysis, report writing, and project deliverables.
 - Contribute to the dissemination of research findings at academic conferences and workshops.
4. Project Support and Mentorship:
 - Assist in project-related administrative tasks, such as organizing meetings and managing documentation.
 - Mentor and supervise PhD students and junior researchers.
 - Contribute to the development of research grant applications and funding proposals.
 - Help to establish research networks to support the project's objectives.

List of required documents:

- Cover letter expressing your interest and highlighting your relevant qualifications.
- Curriculum vitae detailing your academic background, research experience, and publication record.
- A document confirming obtaining a doctoral degree.
- Two writing samples (e.g., published articles, conference papers) showcasing your research abilities.
- Contact information for two references who can speak to your academic and research capabilities.

Candidates are asked to submit an application electronically in consolidated pdf. file to: paulina.pospieszna@amu.edu.pl no later than November 22nd, 2024. Shortlisted candidates will be contacted for an interview. Qualification process period: from November 25th to December 6th, 2024 (the interview must take place within this timeframe). During the interview, candidates will be asked to present their current scientific and practical achievements that fit the purpose of the project. The interview will be conducted in English. We anticipate the position to start January 2025.
